

flow-through barricade

also known as “mojo” barricade after the company that manufactures them, this aluminum or steel barricade is known for reinforcing itself when pressure is applied to the crowd-facing side, making it one of the most sound barricades for crowd control. For smaller or more laid-back crowds, a less expensive option is bike rack.

